and all, a happy, prosperous New Year.

Mr. Foster spent the week with relatives in Salt Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Merle Taylor of Provo, spent the week end with Mrs. Taylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hindley.

The family of Patriarch Henry Moyle of Alpine, were in American Fork Tuesday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Garrett and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Crookston of Salt Lake, were guests at the home of Mrs. Sarah Crookston New Year's.

Joseph Hess of Plymouth, Box Elder county, and Mrs. Rebecca Udy of Farmington, spent New Year's with their sister, Mrs. J. W. Ovard.

Wednesday evening the friends of Raymond Winn gave him a pleasant surprise at his home. Games of different varieties were indulged in, after which refreshments were served.

The Misses Pearl Wagstaff and Merle Julian entertained Wednesday in honor of Miss Fay Householder of Bingham. The time was spent very pleasantly, after which dainty refreshments were served.

Little Miss Mary Frances, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Meeker, who has been quite ill with the second attack of the bronchial trouble so prevalent among the babies, is reported much better, nearly out of danger, in fact.

Mrs. J. R. Hindley entertained at dinner Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams of Idaho. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. A. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Huckins, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Pool; the Misses Ida and Manda, Millie and Stella Chipman and Mrs. Alice Dunkley.

The man of very limited income can scarcely meet the expenses of his family and hear their fretful complaints because they are not better dressed, or more expensively housed, and he feels dejected and discouraged, and thinks the addition of a few hundreds to his income would remove all his troubles; and yet, next door, or on the next block, in another man with five times his income in precisely his fix and in the same state of mind.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo T. Shelley spent New Year's visiting with Bingham friends.

Mrs. E. A. Jensen of Salt Lake, is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hunter.

Mrs. E. J. Durrant attended the sacred oratorio "Messiah" given at Salt Lake yesterday.

Willie Chase went to Salt Lake Thursday to spend New Year's with his cousin, Lavoy Shelly.

Eugene Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Smith, met with an accident Wednesday. He was thrown from a horse, dislocating and fracturing his elbow. Dr. Noyes was called and tended to him.

Mr. George Varney, District Road Supt., this week completed one of the best pieces of road work in the county, from the State Road to the Lehi flour mill. This has been a bad piece of road for years, but the county this winter graded it, surfaced it and rolled it down till from American Fork to Lehi, it is a fine boulevard.

The county has won the commendation of the people for having given the north end of the county more good roads than it has ever had before, and Mr. Bernard Christensen, the retiring commissioner, is largely responsible for this happy condition.

The Farmers Society of Equity

Recently we have had in this locality, Mr. Victor C. Founesbeck, a young farmer from the northern part of the state, seeking to interest the farmers in the Farmers' Society of Equity of Indianapolis, Ind., a natural farmers' organization which now claims a membership of almost a million members, in the various states of the union.

I understand this society has already been established in Cache and Box Elder counties, and considerable benefit is reported to have been derived from it in the way of increased prices for produce and a material saving in the price of machinery, fencing, sacks, etc., which the farmers are continually buying in considerable quantities.

The plan of the organization is to establish in the principal cities and towns of the state, town or local units, comprising as many members as possible. Town units in a county unite in forming a county unit, and the various county units in the state, in turn, affiliate together, forming a state unit and clearing house, through which the business of the state is transacted. The state unit forming part of the national organization. To organize a state unit at least five counties must affiliate together.

The purpose of the society is the mutual protection and uplift of the farmers. This is to be accomplished in a number of ways; a few of which may be mentioned.

1st.—To provide markets for the produce of the farm.

2nd.—To encourage the erection of elevators and store houses, where crops may be held and money realized on same to meet the farmers' immediate wants, until such a time as a fair and legitimate price may be realized.

3rd.—To aid the farmer in the purchase of his machinery, fencing, seed, etc., cutting out as far as possible the middle man's profit.

4th.—To promote and encourage all industries in the county that aim for the betterment of farm life conditions.

The farmer has long been looked upon as the legitimate prey of middle men, who have taken the cream and left the skim milk. This has been made possible on account of the unorganized condition of the tiller of the soil. Only by organization can the farmer expect to get the respect, consideration and returns that his occupation and industry entitles him to. But says one, "The farmers can't stick together." That is just what the middle men want the farmers to believe, and loose no opportunity of impressing them with this idea. We should get rid of such nonsense, for self interest demands that the farmers get together, not for the purpose of extortion, but to get a fair compensation for honest toil. In this day of high taxes, high water maintenance, high cost for everything that the farmer does not raise, does it not occur to you, fellow farmers, that unless we organize for self protection, that we will all land in the poor house together.

The Farmers' Society of Equity has organized units in American Fork and Lehi, I believe; and invitation is extended for others to investigate the movement. Some circulars will be distributed in the near future to the farmers, and one of the national organizers is expected soon to meet with the people.

Celery

Nothing could be more appropriate than Utah celery day. Every stranger who visits Utah and tastes of our celery recognizes instantly that it is the best in the world. If he tastes of Utah celery elsewhere he probably concludes that it is grown in Michigan or some other state where inferior varieties are raised and loudly acclaimed. It is time to make the world recognize the fact that Utah celery is the best. If the American people desire to continue eating the much vaunted Michigan celery, that is their own business, but they should not be left to the delusion that they are partaking of the best.

Utah celery day will do much to spread are fame abroad, and gradually Utah should gain a monopoly of the celery trade. There is no reason why we should hide are light under a bushel, whether it be a bushel of Utah potatoes, Utah fruit or Utah celery. We should let our light shine unto all the world and the world will thank us for it. The celery connoisseurs will demand the best, and when they do they will call only for Utah goods, and they will permit no one to hand them "something just as good" in the form of the inferior Michigan product.

Ten days ago thousands of parcels post packages, each containing a bunch of celery, were sent out of the state. Results are already commencing to come in. This week orders were received from eastern houses for several crates, and it is expected that Utah celery will grow in demand, till car load shipments will be a daily occurrence.

One man in American Fork, Ben W. Brown, this year grew ten acres of the finest celery grown in Utah. Last month three car loads were shipped east and gave excellent satisfaction. He has many rows now pitted awaiting shipment, and has demonstrated that with the opening of proper market, that over half of our farming area could be made to increase about five times its present production.

It is quite possible that the establishment of celery day, the shipping of thousands of samples east, and this year's experiment of Mr. Brown's may mean the establishment of a new and profitable industry in American Fork.

cription of the disease carefully written in simple language without the use of technical terms. Farmers can readily understand these descriptions, and, by the aid of the very clear pictures, determine whether the potatoes they are saving for seed have any of these troubles.

The fundamental truth—Rotation of crops is the surest plan to cleanse the soil of all crop disease germs—is prominently displayed in the poster. Eight methods of control are given, as well as the details of the Corroasive Sublimite treatment for seed potatoes, which is believed to be the most thorough and effective remedy.

County agriculturists, bankers and station agent are co-operating with the Rio Grande Commissioner of Agriculture in his endeavor to get this "Potato Study" poster into every farm house in the potato growing districts served by this system. This work is calculated to do a permanent and positive good in the potato territory of the Rocky Mountain Region.
